announces
WRITING
FELLOWSHIPS
2008-2009

Established to develop a fresh approach and bring new voices to the writing of biography, the newly inaugurated Leon Levy Center for Biography at The Graduate Center, CUNY will offer writing fellowships for the academic year beginning in September, 2008. Awards will include writing space, full access to research facilities, and stipends of $60,000.

The Leon Levy Center for Biography seeks to encourage the connection between university-based and independent biographers working in print, film, visual arts, and other media. Through public programs, the Center also intends to stimulate public conversation about the role of biography in our time.

We invite applications from established and emerging biographers with or without university affiliation, including novelists, poets, playwrights, journalists, graphic novelists and others.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS IS MONDAY, FEBRUARY 18TH, 2008.
