

COGNITIVE SCIENCE SYMPOSIUM

Summer 2005

- June 16, Michael Bruno, University of Arizona
“Higher-Order Theories and Introspective Richness”
- June 23, Yhan Hung-Tzu, Graduate Center
“On Shoemaker's Inverted Spectrum Argument”
- June 30, Josh Weisberg, Graduate Center
“Conscious Know-How: A Limited Defense of the Ability Hypothesis”
- July 7, Peter Ross, California State Pomona
“Common Sense, Proper Sensibles, and the Senses”
- July 14, Chris Summerfield, Columbia
“Mistaking Your Wife for a House: Neural Correlates of Illusory Perception in Healthy Humans”
- July 21, Peter Langland-Hassan, Graduate Center
“A Qualophile's Guide to Explaining Away”
- July 28, no meeting
- August 4, Jennifer Matey, SUNY Stony Brook
“Intentionality and Representation”
- August 11, Richard Brown, Graduate Center
“What Is a Brain State?”
- August 18, Michal Klincewicz, Graduate Center
“Individuating Emotive Attitudes and the Self”

Room 7-102, 2:00 pm

The Cognitive Science Symposium meets weekly at The CUNY Graduate Center, 365 Fifth Avenue, in June, July, and August, 2-4 pm, Thursdays in room 7-102. Additional information at:

<http://web.gc.cuny.edu/cogsci>

or e-mail David Rosenthal at: dro@rucss.rutgers.edu